That of Miss Carrie Taggart and C. P. L. McLain.

AT SIX O'CLOCK ON WEDNESDAY.

Two Well Known Young People are Married by the Rev. C. M. Roberts, in the Presence of a Large Number of Friends and Relatives.

One of the prettiest of the many pretty wedgings which have occurred this fall, was that of Miss Carrie Lydia Tagtook place at the Taggart residence in formatory. Prospect street, on Wednesday at 6 p. m. The house was tastefully decorated with hundreds of chrysanthemums, roses, smilax, palms and feros. The bay window, where the ceremony was performed, was banked with palms and Three Massillon Couples are overhung with chrysanthemums. White satin ribbon trimmed with smilax was hung from the four corners of the library to the chandelier, and the mantlepiece was heaped with chrysanthemums.

The bridal party entered to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, played by George R. Lyon. The ushers, Per Lee Hunt, Harry L. McLain, Walter McLain, and Percy McLain were followed by the bridesmaid, Miss Helen McLain, and the maid of honor, Miss Cora Taggart, a twin sister of the bride.

The bride and groom entered from opposite sides of the room, tho bride with her father, I. M. Taggart, the groom with his best man, John E. Mc-Lain. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Cassius M. Roberts, rector of St. Timothy's church.

The bride wore a gown of heavy white satin trimmed with pearls and mousseline de soie, made with a train and high blossoms and carried white roses. The of the Mendelssohn wedding march, maid of honor wore blue net over blue silk, the bridesmaid pink net over pink silk. Both carried white chrysanthemums. Supper was served immediately after the ceremony. The bridal party, with the addition of Mrs. Walter Mc-Lain, Mrs. Percy McLain and Mrs. Harry L. McLain, was seated at a heartshaped table. The centerpiece was a heart-shaped mass of smilax and yellow throughout the remainder of the evening. chrysanthemums. In spite of the dishonest methods resorted to by the opponents of Joseph E. Blackburn, Republican candidate for dairy and food commissioner, to discredit him in the eyes of the voters of the state, the official vote shows that his plurality, although the smallest on the ticket, reaches 25,445. This result can hardly be referred to by Mr. Blackburn's traducers as what Mr. Bryan so glibly calls "a successful plea for a continuation of the case."

Today's meeting of the joint commission at Paris marks the beginning of the end of the negotiations. The Spaniards can no longer prolong the discussion of the issue they have presented regarding the Philippines, and it is probable that by this time they have been so informed by the American representatives. Spain l'Uzes. Sculpture is an art which wohas made a brave, bold show of resist- men rarely attempt to practice. It ance in yielding the archipelago to the United States, and will now perform the act in which she has become proficient since the beginning of the war-that of bowing to the inevitable. Private advices from officers on Ameri can warships at Manila, indicate that the United States is preparing to anticipate any foreign interference with its occupation of the Philippine islands. From these sources it is learned that the war- he has been a pupil for the last three ships Petrel and Boston have just com- years. It is very likely that Prince pleted a tour, the results of which will Alexander will presently join the place in the hands of the administration Britannia at Dartmouth, with a view be of great value in case the United States should find it necessary to defend its new possessions against encroachments on the part of foreign powers. One weeks at Bernstorff castle, near of the officers referred to says: "By the Copenhagen will probably come to outgoing mail steamer there will be sent | England in November to pay visits to to Washington a number of maps, the Windsor castle and to the prince and originals of which are now in the hands princess of Wales at Sandringham. of Admiral Dewey. A most absurd feature connected with the Spanish-American situation is the suggestion of the Spanish commissioners to submit the interpretation of the protocol to arbitration. One of the first impressions caused by this proposal is that it is designed merely to delay and embarrass the Americans. If Spain had proposed simply to submit the disputed words of the protocol, "the control, disposition and government," to any eminent jurist in order that he might give a prompt decision as to whether sovereignty is involved therein, it is unlikely that there would be any great cause for opposition to such a reference. The Spanish proposal, however, involves an inquiry into the details of the interviews between President McKinley, Secretary of State Day and M. Cambon, the French ambassador, the communications between M. Cambon and the Spanish government, etc., etc., a process which would incur indefinite delay. A most natural supposition is that the Spaniards expect the rejection of their offer, and hope thereby to strengthen their case and to avert decisive action for the present.

In the recent recommendations made by General Miles it is noticeable that he sees no occasion for any such standing army as some of those who have dreaded expansion imagine would neces sarily follow that policy. The current issue of the Outlook contains a summary of these recommendations, which isimportant as showing the probable future of the United Statess army. General Miles believes that it would be desirable to fix a certain percentage of trained soldiers to the population of the country, and to increase the army in the same ratio with the increase of population. He again, as in former reports, recommends that the government rhould authorize enlistment in the army at the rate of one soldier to every thousand of population. At present this would continue the army at about its present size, but if no such provision is made, the act which authorized the war increase of the army would call for its reduction to the old been signed. Number Five, or let us call him 'Russ," begins his story by telling us low, on April 26, a telegram ordered him to report on board the old receivng ship New Hampshire, moored at he end of an East river dock, and hold nimself in readiness to go on board the Yankee. May 3 the men were taken alongside the Yankee in a tug. Then 1ew captain, Commander W. H. Brownion, of the regular navy. His appearance and firm but kindly manner bore out the reputation he holds in the service as a gentleman and a capable oficer, who, although a strict disciplinarian, is ever fair and just in his treatment of the crew. The members of the battalion were rated as landsmen. ordinary seamen and able-bodied seamen, according to their skill; and a number of men hastily enlisted for the purpose were made machinists, firemen, coal passers, painters and carpenters. Some of these had seen service in the regular navy, and they were visibly horny handed sons of toll. One Irishman looked with contempt upon the Naval Reserve sailors. "Uncle Sam is a queer bird," several of the men overheard him remark to a mate. "He do be making a picnic av this war wid his pleasure boats an' his crew av pretty byes. If we iver tackle the Spaniards there'll be manny a mamma's baby on board this hooker cryin' for home, swate home." "Hod," a six-footer, who played quarterback on a famous team not long ago, took out his notebook and made an entry. "I'll spot that fellow and make him eat his words before we get into deep water," he said, quietly.

In real life vows of this sort rarely find their fulfillment. In Oliver Optic's books they always do. Now, the happy destiny that presided over the Yankee so arranged it that even this little episode was to have as poetically perfect a conclusion as if Oliver Optic himself or his ghost had rounded it out. The battalion's first duty was to join in the work of transferring stores from the New Hampshire to the Yankee, and otherwise assist in getting the latter ready for service. As the time arrived for cutting loose from the New Hampshire it was found necessary to station several men, armed with guns and fixed bayonets, on the dock near the latter ship to stop men from taking the "hawser route" ashore. The firemen and coal passers had been refused shore leave, or liberty, as it is called, because of their habit of getting intoxi cated, pawning their uniforms and loitering ashore. The second night after the order was put in force it happened that "Hod." who was rated as an able seaman, was on duty with gun and bayonet on that end of the dock opposite the forecastle. Presently there came a slight, scraping sound and the end of a rope struck the dock almost at his feet.

him by the collar. "Burke, suppose you return aboard ship," said "Hod" quietly. "You are not going to hit the Bowery this time." The Irish fireman attempted to wrench himself free, then he struck out at "Hod" with all the force of his right arm. The quarter back's practice on the field came into play, and the college graduate tackled his opponent in the latest approved style. The struggle was short and decisive, and it resulted in Burke declaring his willingness to return to the ship. "The next time you try to size up a new shipmate be sure you are on to his curves," remarked "Hod." as he escorted his prisoner over the gangway. "You will find some of 'mamma's pretty boys' rather tough nuts to crack." The following days until May 8 were days of manual labor which hardened the muscles and placed a fine edge on the appetites of all. To see men who had been accustomed to a life of luxury toiling away with rope and scrubbing brush and paint pot, working like day laborers, and happy at that, was really a remarkable spectacle.

The monotony of the work was broktion was only Tompkinsville, but every man aboard when the last hawser was gratified. From Tompkinsville the Yankee went to Provincetown, Mass., and then back again to Tompkinsville. Seventeen days had passed. To the eager crew they seemed like seventeen months. At last on May 29 the Yankee was again ordered out under sealed orders. The crew could only guess at their destination. Before they had lost sight of the American coast a sad accident occurred. It was at target practice on Decoration Day. The port forecastle six-pounder, using a shell containing cordite, a powerful English explosive, was in charge of a marine corporal named J. J. Murray, who acted as captain of the gun. After firing several rounds with marked success, Murray saw that the gun was loaded for another trial. The result was a dull click, but no explosion. The corporal stepped back from his place in vexation. He had succeeded in getting a ine "bead" just as the cartridge failed. 'Blast the English ammunition!" he exclaimed. "It's no good."

Captain Brownson had noticed the incident and he sent word to delay opening the breechlock until all danger of explosion had passed. After waiting some time Corporal Murray proceeded o extract the shell. He took his place at the breech, while No. 2 unlocked the plug and swung it open. "Now we'll see what is the matter," he began. "I guess it is another case of-" He never finished the sentence. With a exploded, sending fragments of shell and parts of the breech block into the corporal's face and chest. He was they had their first meeting with their hurled with terrific force to the deck, where he lay motionless, mortally wounded. The voyage down the coast was utilized in making good men-o'war's men of the Yankee's crew. In addition to target practice whenever the weather permitted, they were exercised in manning and arming boats, abandoning ship, fire drill, infantry drill, and the many exercises provided by the naval regulations. Meanwhile these were the thoughts uppermost in every man's mind: "Where are we bound? Are we to join the Havana blockading fleet, are we destined for dispatch and scout duty, or are we to

The navigator, whose rightful surname had been facetiously converted by the naval reserves into "Cutlets," lost no time in rebuking the too enthusiastic lookout. "Aloft, there, you measly lubber! What in thunder do you mean? Have you sighted land?" "Y-e-s, sir-r," quavered the lookout. "Then, why don't you say so without adding any conjectures of your own?" shouted out "Cutlets" irascibly. A STATE LEPER HOME

MEDICAL TREATMENT .MITIGATES BUT NEVER CURES.

An Interesting Institution In Louisiana-It is Under the Direct Management of a Medical Officer and a Corps of Sisters of Charity.

One of the most interesting public institutions in Louisiana is the State Leper Home. This institution, with its grounds and buildings, occupies about two hundred acres of Indian Camp Plantation, Parish of Iberville, on the opposite side of the river. The nearest residence on the same side of the river is one and a half miles away. WithIn this tract of two hundred acres is an inner inclosure of about fifteen acres, surrounded by high fences, within which are the seven cottages occupled by the lepers, an elevated pavilion or lookout for their amusement and a splendid group of old oak trees. Across a dividing fence, in the direction of the main plantation building is a long, raised cottage, specially constructed for the lepers' dining hall, kitchen and other offices.

The institution is under the direct management of a medical officer and a corps of Sisters of Charity, and under the general control of a State board of seven. The Sisters of Charity reside on the premises in quarters detached from those of the patients, but they never leave the place. The ordinary service of the institution is performed by those of the inmates who are able to do so. Employment is a recreation to them. The patients are of both sexes, and upon some the disease is in its early stages, while in others its ravages are fully displayed. The medical report describes one of the inmates thus: "No. 15 is a fine and, generally speaking, healthy looking girl of twenty summers. If it were not for the deformity of her fingers no one would ever know she had anything like leprosy. Her general health is of the best, and she looks in the face as fair as any one could wish to see."

No one is allowed inside the inner leper inclosure except the Sisters, the doctor, the members of the board and authorized visitors, who are always accompanied by the Sister Superior. All money handled by the lepers is soaked in bichtoride of mercury solution or fumigated with the strongest disinfectants before being paid out for their account. Peddlers are not allowed to have direct dealings with lepers, nor, in fact, to go within the lepers' inclosure at all.

Since the home has been established at Indian Camp, in December, 1894, there have been admitted thirty-five patients, of which twenty-one were males and fourteen females. There have been six deaths. All the lepers who come voluntarily to the home are guaranteed that their real names will never be divulged nor their family connections exposed. There are legal means to enforce the sending of lepers to the home, but not a few are concealed by their friends,-New Orleans Picayune.

The guard was shot three times and almost instantly killed.

Guard Gump was the first on the scene and, taking in the situation at a glance, opened fire on the two prisoners. This was returned and a regular battle was in progress until the revolvers of all the participants were emptied. Convict Atkinson was shot down and seriously injured. As soon as the gun's were emptied Guard Gump rushed in with his cane and beat O'Neil until he surrendered. The men were taken to the hospital, where their injuries were attended to.

The other prisoners in the shop where the shooting occurred took no part in the affair, but it is understood that they stood ready to follow if the efforts of the two leaders proved successful. Pretwo prisoners forced a third man to place a ladder against the outside of the . penitentiary wall so that when they had fought their way out of the shops they make their escape by that route.

Washington, Nov. 19.—The cabinet session was devoted to a large extent to consideration of complaints that have reached the war department from Porto Rico. These complaints asserted that the lawless elements in Porto Rico are committing depredations of the gravest character and that the seriousness of the situation is increased by reason of the fact that United States troops stationed in the island likewise have been guilty of gross misconduct.

The most serious allegations are against brigands and lawless elements in the smaller towns away from the coast. It is said that bands of men have organized for robbery and rapine, burning houses and plantations and levying tribute upon the people wher-

President Gary of Federal Steel Company Said No Pool Was Intended, Just & Working Agreement-Thinks Prices Will Be Lived Up To.

New York, Nov. 19.—An attempt by the steel rail manufacturers of the country to form what has been called a pool was abandoned for the time being. The endeavor was to bring about au understanding among the manufactur ers as to territorial divisions and prices.

It was understood that opposition to the plan by the Carnegie Steel company was so uncompromising as to hold out no hope of arriving at a concert of interests. In spite, however, of the breaking off of negotiations it was semi-officially declared that the manufacturers in the majority made arrangements to continue in the endeavor to unite, and that it was fairly certain that a working agreement would be reached early next week.

Ex-Judge E. H. Gary of Chicago, who is president of the Federated Steel company, said:

"There was no idea of forming a pool. During the week the steel rail manufacturers of the country have been striving to reach a rair and equitable working agreement in regard to division of territory and prices. But at this meeting it was found that it was not possible to reach an agreement, and the plan was abandoned. I think, however, that there is a disposition among steel rail manufacturers to live up to spoke to an English Visitor of American Affection For England.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 .- Among the callers upon the president were Senator Proctor of Vermont and the Hon. Harry Foster, who represents the district of North Suffolk in the parliament of Great Britain.

Mr. Foster said the American people must be proud of their president. He was one of the most delightful men he ever met. In the course of the interview, alluding to the results of the Spanish war, the president said the most remarkable result was the wonderfu! expression, by the people east and west, of deep affection for the mother coun-

The president thought the feelings of the two peoples would be fruitful for the cause of humanity and civilization; and that the co-operation of the two countries did not depend upon paper treaties or written obligations, but upon a much deeper and more lasting basis.

Allowed $17 a Month. WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Commissioner Evans of the pension office notified Secretary Alger that Jesse T. Gates of the Second United States artillery, who lost part of his upper lip in the West Indian campaign, has been awarded the first pension on account of the Spanish war.

Gates will receive $17 per month, and this being inadequate, a private pension bill increasing the pension probably will be introduced in congress. Claims on account of the Spanish war are now coming in rapidly. The total on file up to Friday is 1,947 for war service and 178 for naval service, exclusive of the claims of the battleship Maine disaster.

State of Maryland to Sell It's Interest In C. & O. Caual.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19.—The board of public works decided to sell all the in. terest of the state of Maryland in the from Niagara Falls, New York and from famous Chesapeake and Ohio canal. This interest has cost the state in one way or another about $25,000,000, but it's present value is indeterminate, as it is now in the hands of receivers. It is understood that this action was taken for the purpose of enabling the Baltimore and Ohio reorganization managers to obtain a title to the prop. erty and to use it in connection with the present system.

MILES' MAN EFFICIENT.

Dr. Greenleaf Unionded Supplies at 81boney-Other Witnesses Before War Commission.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 .- The war in vestigation commission met here, all the members being present except Colonel Denby and Major Miles.

Dr. Charles R. Greenleaf, chief surgeon of the troops in the field on General Miles' staff, said that in some respects Camp Alger was a good camp for a small body of men, but the water supply was poor and the region was known to be highly malarious.

Dr. Conner asked Dr. Greenleaf how the medical supplies were delayed at

Dr. Greenleaf said he did not know. "Who hually unloaded these supplies?" asked Dr. Conner.

"I did. I captured some pontoons and took the law into my own hands." "You unloaded in 30 hours supplies that had been lying in the harbor two weeks. Why did not Dr. Pope, chief surgeon of General Shafter's corps, land them within those two weeks?"

"I suppose he was at the front at-tending to the wounded." "Did Dr. Pope take charge of one wounded man?"

"I cannot say," replied Dr. Greenbest he could. I had full authority from General Anles to do what I thought best.'

In reply to a question Dr. Greenleaf said he supposed Dr. Pope had authority from General Snafter sufficient to enable him to unload the supplies at Sib-ony as he (Mr. Greenleat) had done.

"There is no doubt," said Dr. Conner, "that somebody was dreadfully at fault. Can't you nelp us to find out who it was ! Dr. Greenleaf said he could not.

Private Goss of the Seventy-first New York said he slept in the open air in Cuba for 12 days because he had no tent. There were two hospital tents. Three of the officers of his company took one of these tents for their own accommodation.

Richard W. Henry of the Seventyfirst New York returned from Cuba in the transport Grand Duchess. Immediately on landing at Montauk Point. on Aug. 18, he went to the detention When asked what he received to eat, he said: "I suppose they forgot us. We did not get anything until, the next day, when an orderly gave us some soup. A surgeon visited us at noon. He made a curs ry examination of us and said he would send us medicine immediately. The medicine did not reach us until late that night."

Dr. Frank Donaldson, who joined Colonel Roosevelt's regiment in Cuba on July 8, and who was stricken with yellow fever on July 24, was asked by Dr. Conner as to the condition of the hospitals. He said that they were entirely swamped. There was an insufficient supply of medical stores, nurses and stewards. The majority of the stewards were of a most undesirable

DELAY PROVING EMBARRASSING.

Rebels May Commit a Massacre at Itoilo and the United States, Under the Protocol, Caunot Act Under Present Conditions-Message From Dewey.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.-It is now thought to be certain that the American peace commission, at a meeting next Monday or Tuesday, will do one of two things, i. e., either agree to the cession of the Philippines or note a disagreement and dissolve the meeting, for the administration is not disposed to tolerate further delay, and has so instructed the United States commission-The latter sent a long cablegram in

As a matter of fact it was nothing more than an extremely verbose statement of the Spanish side of the case relating to the Philippines, There was a renewal of the attempts to take issue with the American contention as to the meaning of the protocol clause relative to the disposition of the Philippines, and much quibbling, accompanied by quotations from French, Spanish and other European languages in the effort to demonstrate to Americans just what an English word might mean. The latter will take no notice of this kind of a hair-solitting plea, but at today's meeting, it is expected, will call on the Spanish commissioners to make answer to the American proposition to cede the Philippines, probably allowing until Monday or Tuesday only for a final and responsive answer on this > Serious news came to the navy department from Admiral Dewey touching the situation in the Philippines. The admiral sent two of his warships, the Charleston and the Concord, some time time ago to the southward from Manila to ascertain whether there was truth in reports that the insurgents had expended their activities in that direction. He cabled as follows: "MANILA, NOV. 18.

Secretary of Navy, Washington:

"Charleston and Concord arrived today from Lioilo. Glass reports that the entire island of Panay is in possession of insurgents, except Iloito, which is defended by 800 Spanish troops. All foreign citizens there beg for American protection. Such is the construction Jan ... placed upon the clause in the protocol relating to a suspension of hostilities. The immediate effect of this state of affairs may be to hasten action in the termination of that tribunal that the United States can come to the relief of the beleaguered Spaniards in floilo, and at other points. It is said to be a fact. however, that a total disagreement at Paris may result in speedier action than if the commissioners agreed upon the main principles of the Philippines cession, for in such case several additional sessions probably would be required in order to arrange the details of the treaty. Paris, Nov. 19.—The United States commissioners have been formulating their next presentation for the consideration of the Spanish commissioners.

While the Americans are reticent as to their intentions it may be said without reserve that the occasion is near upon which the exact peace terms acceptable to the American commissioners will be laid before the Spaniards with a time limit for their acceptance. The American commissioners will not guarantee any of the Spanish bonds, even though Spain may have mortgaged as security the revenues of territory to be taken by the United States. As set forth in these dispatches on Oct. 31 and previously the United States may now balance it's war ledger, debiting to Spain the value of the batport St. Paul sailed for Manila carrying tleship Maine, the cost of the naval and military operations, the losses incurred by American commerce and the future pension roll, etc., while on the other side of the sheet may be placed Spain's equities and values in the Philippine islands. If a difference is found to exist in favor of Spain this amount in cash may be offered her by the American commissioners at the next joint session here. What this balance may be is not definitely known, but it may be about $20,000,000 or possibly less.

The sleeves are very moderate bishop sleeves, with only the slightest bit of fullness at the bottom to be gathered into the cuffs. Linen collars and dark ties are worn with these blouses.

The chief virtue about this gown is that a blue or green blouse can be worn to equal advantage with the skirt without making a "patchy toilet." Changing the bodice each week not only varies this toilet, but it saves elbows considerably.

So often the plump growing girl complains that she cannot bear belted-in bodices, because they tend to make the waist appear shorter. The couturieres here always suggest in these shortwaisted girls that they wear a "girdle belt" in the same material as their

To give the desired effect, there belts must be cut with the points on the lower edge and the upper edge should be sloped away until it just hides the waistband of the skirt. If this style of girdle is fitted, boned and laced correctly it is bound to give a long wansted

The blouse effect is visible even in the little jackets Boleros still hold their own, but the newest jacket effects have short basques and blouses a trifle over the belt On one of the smartest looking school girls I saw such an attractive dress of blue and red cloth that boasted this effect.

It was made of dark blue serge. The skirt was a moderately wide godet, vith all of the fullness gathered to the back. It was trimmed around the top with a band of dark red braid, put on in a rounded point at the front.

The bodice was a sort of blouse, with short basques opening over a vest of red cloth. It had pointed revers of Koschland, late master of finance of church. Delegates from New Jersey, blue cloth over larger revers of 1ed. Red braid was put on like braces, extending from the shoulders to the bottom of the basques, back and front. The belt was of red cloth, fastening with an oblong buckle, with but very little fullness At the top where they were trimmed with points of the red braid, they were finished with small flaring cuffs of the blue cloth, faced with the red cloth. The high, straight military collar was

Get Strong

A system which has become run down by the trying weather of the past summer is not in a condition to meet the severe winter of this climate and will easily fall a prey to disease unless a proper tonic is used.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the best medicine in the world for building up and strengthenıng an enervated system.

Do not confuse these bills with ordinary purgative pills. They do NOT act on the bowels, thereby further weakening the body. They build up the blood and strengthen the nerves.

Major A. C. Bishop, of 715 Third ave. Detroit, Mich., is a well known civil engineer. He says. "When I had my last spell of sickness and came out of the hospital I was a sorry sight. I could not regain my strength, and could not walk over a block for several weeks. I noticed some articles in the newspapers regarding Dr Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, which convinced me that they were worth trying and I bought two boxes. I did not take them for my complexion but for strength. After using them I felt better, and know they did me worlds of good. I am pleased to recommend them to invalids who need a tonic of to build up a shattered constitution."-Detroit Free Press.

The great success of Dr. Williams Pink Pills for Pale People has led to many attempts at imitation and substitution.Thegenuine are always sold in packages like this, the wrapper being printed in red ink on white paper. Attachments Granted For Two Bankers In the Quay Bank Case, at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19. — Before Another attractive school gown for a Judge Gordon, in the quarter sessions gird of fourteen is made of dark green court. District Attorney Graham asked serge. The skirt is made with two nar- for and was granted attachments for row box pleats at the front and three the arrest for contempt of court of $\mathbf{W}\mathbf{m}$ at the back. Three big green pearl but. Montgomery, cashier of the Allegheny

In making the application, Mr. Graham stated that Montgomery and Stone had been subpoensed to appear before the grand jury to testify in the case of the two narrow box pleats of the material commonwealth against United States that give the effect of braces. These are Senator Quay, his son, Richard R. Quay, and ex-State Treasurer Haywood. who are charged with conspiracy in the misuse of state funds. The subpænaes commanded the respondents to produce certain books of their respective banks before the grand jury, but they failed to appear The respondents were repretrimmed at the bottom with six bands sented by counsel in court and Mr. Stone was himself present. Affidavits made by Montgomery and Stone were read, in which the contention was made that they had no right without the consent of the depositors to expose their accounts nor authority to remove the books or papers of the banks from those institutions. Mr. Montgomery in his affidavit said he had been subpoenaed to bring with him deposit slips, tickets, etc., of M. S. Quay and R. R. Quay for May, July it is stated that counsel will probably then take out a writ of habeas corpus for their production before the superior court and a decision of the question by that body.
